

BRADY'S

Green Back Powder

The only Pure Cream of Tartar Powder—No Ammonia, No Alum.
Used in Millions of Homes—20 Years the Standard.

WAG STOCKS.

Weekly Stock Review Furnished by Sherwood Aldrich.

The general tone of the stock market during the past week has been strong.

The most notable feature being the sharp rise of Leasco from 12 to 25.

This rise was due to several causes, the most prominent of which was the purchase by the Leasco Company of the Smuggler claim, which confers with the Leasco of the Leasco Company.

This settlement practically assures to the Leasco Company 3,000 feet of the famous Buena Vista vein and brings the stock to the front as one of the most valuable, if not the most valuable in the camp.

No one visiting the Leasco properties at Cripple Creek and observing the character of the work being done, and of the plant erected to work the mine, can fail to appreciate the fact that the Leasco Company is backed with a first-class management.

The stock dealers of this city are becoming more fully aware that good management is almost as important to the success of a company as good mines.

Leasco seems to be a stock which one can put away with every assurance that its interests will be carefully guarded by those who are in power in the company.

Leasco at 23 1/2.

Calumet was perhaps next in demand to Leasco. A careful observation of the situation convinces me that with the absorption of the surplus Calumet stock upon the market, the price must rise very materially.

The buying during the past week has been of a heavy character, the majority of sales averaging at least 5,000 shares, and some running as high as 25,000.

At a meeting of the company held on Saturday evening the mine was turned over from the hands of the Leasco to the Calumet company.

Leasco at 23 1/2.

The principal exception to the prevailing strong price was Anconita. The means which were employed to depress the stock this week have become a little old and thread-bare, and while the attempt to run the price down was successful, the effort to bring out much stock was a failure, and it looks as though the manipulators have had their trouble for their pains. The stock closed at 28.

Zacharias, too, dropped several points and closed at 20. This now quite certain that no dividend will be paid on the stock next month, and perhaps none for some time. The company is obliged to do considerable work before going much farther, and wishes to prospect several of the cross veins which have been exposed in the present workings.

To do this they will have considerable money to be generally believed that further decline will follow. Summit was quiet at 22 and 25, but World was in considerable demand, toward the close of the week, at 4 1/2. Organ Be, Jack 20, Alamo, and the others, were quiet; while Y. Rosa was in considerable demand.

Copatra sold at 15. As work progresses on this promising Creech property, it becomes more certain that it will develop into a bonanza mine. The ore now being taken from the shaft and workings is the richest yet encountered, and seems to be there in good quantities. The stock is now at 15, very close, and when the boom comes those who have had the most patience and the greatest confidence, will certainly be heavy winners.

World dropped to 1 1/2 early in the week, but strengthened toward the close to 3 1/2. The annual meeting of the company is to be held on Monday, and this is looked forward to with much interest. A strong board of directors can be put in charge of the World properties, the stock will respond immediately by a sharp advance. The entire Cripple Creek camp is developing rapidly, and it is a common thing to hear old miners express the belief that its output during the next decade will be as large, or larger, than that of any other camp in the State.

Sherwood Aldrich.

Calumet Company Accepts the Compromise.

An important meeting of the stockholders of the Calumet Mining company was held at Cripple Creek on Saturday evening.

Four hundred and twenty-five shareholders were present, and the company was represented.

A resolution was offered by E. E. Pettigrew that the capital stock be changed from 700,000 to 1,400,000.

The new stock will have a par value of $5 per share.

A motion by J. E. Miner was adopted giving to the holders of the Burns lease 600,000 shares of the new stock and to the Calumet stockholders 800,000 shares.

Two hundred thousand will remain in the treasury.

The board of directors of the company will meet on Tuesday to transact other important business.

Too Late Life.

An aged German woman named Kate Weisberger committed suicide at Cripple Creek Sunday night by strangulation.

She had been having considerable trouble with her son and his wife, and Sunday night took to drinking. She went to a freight car standing on the Colorado N. & G. track, and with two stockings and a piece of cord suspended herself from a beam. She stood upon an old empty tin can while adjusting the loop and laid the stick under her. The cord was just long enough to permit her feet to touch the floor and she slowly strangled. The woman was 65 years of age. A note pinned to her jacket written in German claimed that she had been driven to commit the act through the cruelty of her children. This is probably generally believed to be true in Cripple Creek, and there was talk of the citizens using violence. In fact a rumor reached this city last night that a crowd had collected with ropes and announced their intention of lynching the woman's son. Everything was reported quiet, however, at midnight. The son refused to pay for the burial. Yesterday, until Coroner Marlow gave him a talking to, the coroner decided that the facts were evident and no inquest would be necessary. The following is the note found pinned to the woman:

"I did not give myself the life, but have to take it from me after sixty-three years. What shall I do in this world, where I am treated so very bad. My son's wife is the cause of my death, but she will be punished for it. My son knocked me on the head with a chair because I wanted to go back to Germany. I came to New York two years ago and gave my son 500 marks which I earned in Germany by hard work. Every cent of it I gave him and he begged to be buried with this money. They did not give me anything to eat for nine days, nor did they let me sleep. Every day a piece of bread from people of Cripple Creek. I can't be ever so bad, but to starve a mother to death must be a very bad evil. I can never have a day's rest because she deserves it on his mother. My son takes her the food, and his name is Andrew Zimmerman."

Accommodations at the Fair.

Chicago, March 30.—Pres. C. E. Elgin, chairman of the World's Columbian Exposition, in order to correct certain erroneous statements in regard to the fair, which have been given wide circulation to-day, issued the following statement:

World's Columbian Exposition.

Chicago, March 30.

To the Public:—Because of many misrepresentations and misstatements relative to the exposition, management and affairs being circulated through the press and otherwise, both in this country and abroad, and in reply to many letters of inquiry or complaint touching the same matters, it seems advisable that some official statement regarding them should be made to the public.

Therefore I respectfully ask that the widest publicity be given to the following facts:

1. The exposition will be opened in readiness for visitors on May 1.

2. An abundance of drinking water, the best supplied, to any great city in the world, will be provided free to all. The report that a large water bill would be levied for drinking water is a gross error. The fact that drinking water can also be had by those who may desire it at one cent a glass.

3. Ample provisions for seating will be made without charge.

4. About 1,500 toilet rooms and closets will be located at convenient points in the building and about the grounds, and they will be absolutely free to the public; that is, as large a number in proportion to the estimated attendance as has ever been provided in any exposition. In addition to this there will be almost an equal number of lavatories and toilet rooms of a costly and handsome character, as exhibits, for the use of which a charge of five cents will be made.

5. The admission fee of 50 cents will entitle the visitor to see and enter all the exhibition buildings, inspect the exhibits and, in short, to see everything within the Exposition grounds except the Zephyrus village and the reproduction of the Colorado cliff dwellings. For these as well as for the special attractions on Midway Plaisance a small fee will be charged.

6. Disposition or extortion of any description will not be tolerated.

7. Free medical and emergency hospital service is provided on the grounds by the Exposition management.

8. The Bureau of Public Comfort will provide commodious free waiting rooms, including spacious ladies' parlors and toilet rooms in various parts of the grounds.

H. N. HARRINGTON, President.

To Be Impeached.

Lincoln, Neb., March 30.—The commission appointed by the legislature to investigate the State officers, and ascertain if there was evidence enough to impeach the board of public lands and buildings reported to the Senate this morning unanimously in favor of the impeachment of Secretary of State Allen, Attorney General Hastings and Commissioner of Public Lands and Buildings Humphrey.

The commission was composed of representative attorneys from the Republican, Democratic and Independent parties, chosen by the party in caucus of members of the legislature. Impeachment proceedings will now be pushed.

R. V. Christliff Assigns.

Denver, March 30.—R. V. Christliff, who was arrested yesterday night with an attempt to blow up the Rock in which his plant and mill paper establishment was situated, today made an assignment to C. A. "Doc" Asks are placed at $10,000 and $10,000. Christliff is out on bail, and still maintains his innocence.

For Dentists and Doctors.

Denver, March 30.—Governor Waite appoints as members of the new State Board of Dental Examiners Drs. James W. Chipley of Pueblo, C. N. Guyer, G. A. Dike and J. G. Schaeffer of Denver and Leuben B. Walser of Georgetown; as members of the State board of Medical Examiners, Drs. C. E. Baird of Walsenburg, Luke McLean of Delta and Byron A. Wheeler of Denver.

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a piece as this, just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

"Just such a piece as this," he said in a low tone. "Just such a man as I am. It is the comedy and was this evening the reality? Or is it the other way?"

"I call it up before his eyes the scene in which he had acted, and his imagination played its part."

